Digesting food isn't a single process, but several processes. One of these is "conscious," which you can control. The others are not. The first, conscious process is when you eat. You may gulp in huge bites, and eat fast, or you may chew thoroughly and slowly. If you do the latter, the food, wellnixed with the secretions of the mouth, stomach, and small intestines, become semi-liquid. If well masticated, quietly, and without emotional upset, it is ready for the second process.

The second step is involuntary. The semi-liquid filters through the lining of the small intestines into the bloodstream. on its way to the millions of cells in the body. This is followed by absorption, the third involuntary stage. The cells now pick up and use the nourishment, and this is assimilation. There is not nutritive value until food is assimilated.

Six simple rules assure good digestion: 1) chew thoroughly; 2) eat tasty, well prepared food; 3) eat moderately-don't stuff; 4) eat a few varieties of food-not a conglomeration; 5) never work hard after eating; 6) avoid arguments or tension when eating. Follow these rules and consult your doctor of chiropractic for a restoration of the mechanical integrity of the body and you may be assured of normal nerve function and a healthy digestion.

Improving the Downtown

Officials of neighboring Alliance are concerned, and rightly so, over the fact that its downtown business section has 22 empty storerooms. This does not include two business establishments which soon will close their doors.

Economic conditions and new, brighter stores away from the downtown district are blamed.

What has this to do with Salem. Actually nothing, but any problem so acute did not occur overnight.

Alliance's plight should serve as a lesson to Salem merchants and owners of commercial buildings. Our downtown business district must be kept modernized and attractive. The Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Division have been proceeding along these lines for the past several years but the project must be kept alive.

A number of local merchants and property owners have spent funds for modernization and they are to be commended. Already they are getting a return on their investment through increased patronage.

People like to shop in Salem and they come here from many towns, Alliance included. Nevertheless, this job of keeping Salem vibrantly alive is a challenge that demands constant attention.

Futher improvements in downtown Salem will require the cooperative effort of everyone concerned. It may mean a new store front or even more extensive remodeling; attractive rear entrances like some of the stores have; tidy parking lots or even new waste receptacles on the sidewalks to replace the battered ones now in use.

As the doorway of a home radiates the warm hospitality inside so does Salem's business district convey to visitors the attitude of the community as a whole. The year 1960 should be the proper time for a little more fixin' and doing.

The Worse Is Yet to Come

Perhaps a very long time ago, the beginning of a decade made everybody think about the good years ahead. It still has this effect on most of us.

But at the beginning of the '60s we must be sympathetically aware of the grim spirits who feel that the worst is yet to come. They have a tough decade and are looking forward to a still worse 10 years ahead.

If everything goes as expected from now until 1970-and they survive it-they will have shuddered through goodness knows what misgivings and threats to civilization.

Surely, as they see it, the causes of despair will not be limited to a Korean War, the Russian rocket triumphs, the rise of nationalism in formerly backward countries in Asia and the emergency of three-quarters of a billion Chinese as a potential military power

They did not reach the peak of their apprehension with the realization that the Soviet Union was continuing to grow stronger, that the Anglo-French mad-dog intervention in Suez gave the lie to cooperative security, or that the most rapid economic recovery in Europe was being made by the defeated Germans.

There will be grislier things to come than evidence of Communist subversion in Latin America, the misuse of the Fifth Amendment to conceal evidence of treason and chicanery, the congenital corruption of unionism by strong men who always make a point of answering opportunity's knock and the longest

The bankruptcy of railroads, the collapse of urban transportation, the problems of urban sprawl, the deterioration of central cities in metropolitan areas and the zooming national product statistics of the Soviet Union;

Dissension among the Western Allies, chrone budget deficits in peacetime, juvenile delinquency, recessions and the resurgence of systematic race inequality in the unreconstructed South;

Rock 'n' roll, the fail from grace of the once cloud-borne electronic arts, interservice rivalry in the Department of Defense, unanswered questions about the potential surprises in Outer Space, the stiffening postures of conflicting religionists and the carping of Surely these do not mark the furthermost limits of human ability to maintain a sense of fear year in and year out, decade in and decade out.

Those who thought they had endured the ultimate in the '40s while World War II was aging not surprised when things went from bad in the '50s, and they are confident that even ruder shocks and shivers await them as they tiptoe into the '60s.

They simply have no use for dreamers and romanticists like the rest of us who dare to think it is going to be the best decade over, full of promise and hope.

That is not the way they like to think of things in a universe they feel sure is going to hell in a basket and is already halfway

Unwelcome Sound of Progress

Energetic support is being claimed for a national organization to fret and fume about the problem of airport noise. The problem is growing, which is to be expected.

The unwelcome sound of progress always has been growing in the United States. Only in dying civilizations does the sound of progress diminish from year to year, until finally there is nothing but the howling of wolves in a desert.

Stagecoach lines disturbed the slumber of early settlers with the thud of hooves and the rumble of iron-shod wheels.

Canal boats featured a horrendous clanking of chains and bursts of profanity from short-tempered teamsters.

Railroads marred the somnolence of American with their endless chugging, whistling and clanking.

Automobiles and trucks caused fists to be sition to progress if it was accompanied by noise. City dwellers have fought the rivet hammer, the street car bell, the steel-shod horse on the milkwagon.

Country dwellers have fought the auto horn, the train whistle, the stentorian purr of the contented diesel, even the electronic blatting of radio and television.

And now there is to be a last-ditch stand against the noise of airplanes. Only one thing about it is fortunate. The last ditch, though always proclaimed, never is reached. The airplane and its noise will survive, and so will long-suffering peope whose ancestors didn't think they coud outlive the unearthy clatter of the stagecoach.

Wrong Means to the Right End

The president of the National Education Assn fell heir to a type of thinking all to prevalent these days when he appeared before the Federal Communications Commission to urge that it require television stations to devote more prime evening viewing time to public service broadcasts.

There can be little argument with the desirability of the goal proposed by Walter W. Eshelman. In view of the scandals which have hit the television industry in recent months, a bigger share of educational programs during the most favorable viewing

Slow Down and Live!

The new year was less than two days old before traffic fatalities had been recorded in both Columbiana and Mahoning Counties, Two persons died needless deaths.

Traffic tolls were higher last year in both neighboring counties than the previous year's totals, despite continued pleas of traffic officials to "slow down and live."

Twenty-eight men, women and children perished in highway accidents in Columbiana County in 1959, an increase of six, and Mahoming County's toll of 49 was a gain of 19, records show.

The highways east, west and south of Salem claimed a major share of the tragedies. more so than the southern part of the county. Although 1960's traffic record already is marred, the toll can be lessened this year if every motorist resolves to slow down and live. Speeding is blamed by the State Highway Patrol for more than half of the traffic crashes that occur.

The chief offenders are those who speed in excess of road conditions, those who just plain speed and those who attempt to pass other vehicles when thty should stay in line. Don't become a statistic in 1960. Be wise,

Favorite Son Time

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)-Favorite son time is at hand for Ohio. Both Democrats and Republicans should know before the week is out who will win the honor leading Buckeye delegations to the national presidential nominating conventions next summer.

Republican state committee members will make their decision at a meeting here next Wednes-

And that is the day Democrat Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has indicated for announcement of his favorite son decision, although conceding he might wait a little longer for political developments.

Favorite son selection is an expedient stemming from Ohio law requiring convention delegate candidates and their alternates-elected in the May 3 primaries-to file petitions by 4 p.m. on Feb. 3 this year. Must State Choices

Candidates for delegate and alternate must state their first and second choices for president, and

Hollywood Trend

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

There are no doubts about it in Hollywood.

The new decade holds the promise of becoming "The Sexy Sixties" for theater motion picture screens.

The Sexy Sixties may bring an answer to the question, "How far can Hollywood go with movies that are hotter-than-ever?"

The answer may be classification of some movies with the label, "For Adults Only."

In an attempt to win back their lost audience, adults, Hollywood moviemakers have been turning to more adult themes. How far can Hollywood go?

Those favoring Adults Only movies argue that it is the only logical answer and that classification is not censorship. Theater owners and others opposed to classification insist it is censor-

We will be hearing more and more arguments on this question in 1960. One fact is obvious. Hollywood no longer is holding the line on its own self-policed censorship code which once guaranteed wholesome family entertain-

Sex, at the adult level, has found a place on the screen in Hollywood's competition with television, foreign imports and other forms of recreation for adult customers. As Director Alfred Hitchcock says: "Sex, has a definite place, but only it it motivates or progresses the story. Give auciences too much sex-or in bad taste-and they become embarrassed or laugh at the wrong place. The trick is to time the reaction; then give them something you want them to laugh at."

But how many producers of movies have good taste, and know the trick? Hollywood is facing more than

"How far can we go?" problems in the '60s. There's talk of federal film control on exand state department officials believing they are giving foreign audiences the "wrong impression" of life in the United States. The big Hollywood backlog of post - 1948 movies may be released to television-and the Theater Owners of America are demanding more products from Hollywood to help keep theaters receive their written consent, so to accept the favorite son role bethose names also can be printed on election ballots. Actual candidates for president often have not announced by the time those seeking to become Ohio delegates and alternates must over DiSalle's acceptance. start circulating petitions to qualify for election. So the parties pick a favorite son candidate for president as standin for a bona fide candidate who announces later.

Ohio delegates and alternates are committed to cast their first convention ballot for their favorite son. But the pledge is not legally binding and often is forgotten in the rush to board the bandwagon of an early convention

In the 1956 Democratic convention, then Gov. Frank J. Lausche released Ohio delegates pledged to him as favorite son so they could join in nominating Adlai E. Stevenson. But seven Ohioans cast 51/2 votes for Lausche anway. 70 Have Endorsed DiSalle Lausche, now U. S. senator, has asked not to be counted out as a favorite son prospect this year but 70 of Ohio's 88 counties have endorsed DiSalle for that honor in a campaign fostered by Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman.

Cuyahoga County endorsed U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and urged him to seek convention delegates in the Ohio primary.

But Ohio Democrats must turn to a favorite son unless leading presidential possibilities announce soon. The same holds true for Republicans because Vice President Richard M. Nixon's presidential announcement is not expected until late this month.

Consent of a bona fide presidential aspirant for Ohioans to seek election as delegates pledged to him would tip his hand in advance of a formal announcement.

There is nothing to prevent a delegate candidate from seeking election under an approved pledge to some unknown or as an asserted candidate for president himself, as four anti - Lausche Ohioans did four years ago. Reluctant To Accept Role

DiSalle has expressed reluctance cause of "more important things." And he has gone out of his way to assert that his decision will mak supporters unhappy. But Coleman says he has "no doubts whatever" Ohio will have 64 of the total

1,521 votes at the Democratic convention in Los Angeles opening July 11. At the Republican convention opening July 25 in Chicago Ohio will have 56 of the total 1.331 votes:

National committees apportion the votes for states and territories. State committees then decide how the votes will be distributed among their delegates. Ohio Democrats have allotted two delegates-a man and a woman-from each of the 23 congressional districts a full vote each and a half vote each for 36 atlarge delegates elected statewide. Ohio's two Democratic National Committee members were given a half vote each in advance but will stand for election. They are Albert A. Horstman of Dayton and Mrs. Helen T. Gunsett of Van Wert. If unable to attend, they can designate proxies under national committee rules. 46 District Alternates

Democrats also will elect 46 district alternates and 18 at-large alternates - one for each full atlarge vote. The half-vote division was used to swell the Ohio delegation to 146 members. Republicans plan to elect two delegates - a man and a woman -from each congressional district and 10 at-large. Each delegate will have a full vote. With a like number of alternates, the GOP delegation would total 112.

Those seeking election as atlarge delegates or alternates must file petitions bearing at least 1,000 valid signatures from a minimum of 30 counties with the secretary

Candidates for district delegate or alternate need at least 100 valid signatures on petitions filed at the courthouse of the most populous county in the district. All petitions must be accompanied by the written consent of the candidate's first and second choice for the presidency.

Parcel Post Hike

By PETER EDSON

Rate Increase Attacked from Two Sides

The mountains of packages shipped by parcel post and the miles and miles of Christmas cards laid end to end spelled holiday cheer to everyone except the postal employes who handled them and the people who keep the books on the Post Office Department deficit.

It is expected to be around 656 million dollars this year. For the postwar years - 1946 through 1959 — it totals 6.9 billion.

Congress has now approved in principle and in part Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield's contention that postal revenues should be high enough to cover postal costs. But it doesn't work out that way in actual practice yet.

PARCEL POST RATE increase scheduled to go into effect Feb. 1 is being opposed from two different angles as being both too big and not big enough.

The increase of 17 per cent is expected to raise parcel post revenues by 88.5 million dollars over a full year's operations. This increase would have been enough to balance the parcel post account in 1957 when it was asked for. Revenues were then 518 million, costs 606 million.

But in 1958 Congress approved retroactive pay increases for postal workers and increased mail transportation costs. They had to be paid for out of the 1959 budget. That threw the post office further into the red.

The 1958 parcel post deficit was over 100 million dollars, 12 million more than in 1957. This is still within the 4 per cent of 606 million dollar costs - 24 million dollars - which the Post Office is allowed as a margin in asking the Treasury for funds to meet its deficits. So no further parcel post rate increases have to be called for.

ON THE GROUNDS that the rate increase is not big enough to cover costs, Railway Express Agency has issued a statement asking that parcel post rates be raised more.

REA is the government's only competitor on package delivery. But the competition is so tough that the railroad-owned service cooperative has had to go through extensive reorganization to stay in business at all.

There really is no comparison between express and parcel post charges. The express minimum charge is $2.57. This will cover a five-pound shipment on short hauls like Washington to Philadelphia, up to three pounds Washington to St. Louis, or one pound beyond St. Louis.

Under the fourth class mail rates scheduled to go into effect Feb. 1, a five-pound parcel post shipment will go for 30 cents (up six cents) on local delivery, 48 cents (up nine cents) for 150 miles, 75 cents (up 12 cents) from 600 to 1,000 miles, 90 cents (up 14 cents) 1,000 to 1,400 miles, $1.21 (up 16 cents) for over 1,800 miles. The maximum shipment - 70 pounds for over $1,800 miles - will be $12.26, a cut of 52 cents.

But by another segment of the business community, these new rates are considered too high. Parcel Post Assn., Inc., a trade organization of 300 smaller companies that are big users of parcel post, has filed suit in District of Columbia federal court, asking that the Feb. 1 rate increase be block-

FILING OF THIS SUIT has made Post Office authorities 'eluctant to talk about their fiscal problem while it is before the court. But government plans to fight the suit and will ask for an early trial so that the proposed increases can go into effect on schedule.

Parcel post rates are now approved by Interstate Commer ce Commission, on petition by Post Office Department. First, second and third class mail rates on letters, periodicals and advertising matter are still set by Congress.

Last year President Eisenhower requested rate increases on first, second and third class mail which would have brought in an estimated 355 million dollars in additional revenue. Ordinary train letter mail would have been raised from four to five cents, airmail seven to eight cents.

The assumption is that these and other increases will be asked for again next year, to help balance the postal budget. But in an election year, it is unlikely that anything will be done about it.

Prophecies of Fatima

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Still secret prophecies of Fatima, as written by Sister Maria Dolores, are due to be revealed to the world this year. Speculation has been rife among Roman Catholics as to what they may contain.

Sister Maria, a 54-year-old cloistered nun at Coimbra's Carmelite Convent in Portugal, is the sole survivor of three shepherd children who said they saw visions of the Virgin Mary at Fatima in ago, sealed them in an envelope and entrusted them to the bishop of Leiria, her ecclesiastical superior, to be opened in 1960, or at her death if she died before then. Vatican sources said the revelation would be made by the bishop but they did not know when. They said it might be on the anniversary of the first vision-May 13.

It was on that day in 1917 that Lucia Dos Santos, now Sister Maria, and Giancina and Francesco Marto, saw what they described as "a beautiful lady in white" on a grassy slope near Fatima.

Since then, Fatima has become one of the greatest shrines to the Virgin Mary.

Lucia became a nun after the death of the other two. Some of the prophesies she made SCALING A BARRIER-An Indian rider and his mount clear a grand piano during the filming of a movie in Durango, Mexico. The western picture deals with adventures of settlers in Texas.

NO FARMER'S DAUGHTER - Cathy Bauby is just kidding with this bucolic pose in Memphis, Tenn. Cathy is on the road to run charm shows for the ladies while their husbands attend to business at conventions.

FAITH IS THE FOUNDATION—A crude scaffolding of bamboo, held together with rope lashings, forms a vivid contrast to the ornate and impressive facade of the Memon mosque in Karachi, Pakistan.

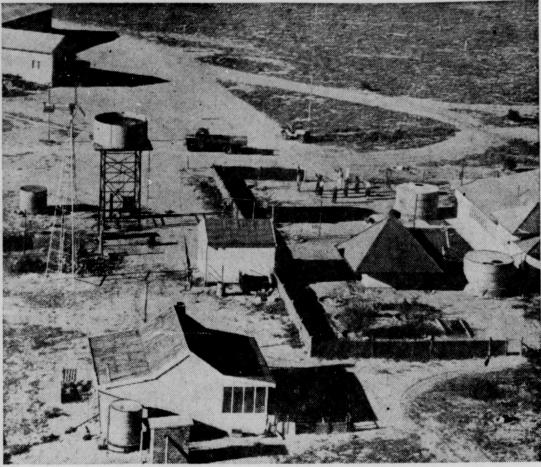

MISLEADING ADVERTISING-No, that builder isn't trying to persuade anyone that the shack on his property in Princeton, N. J., is as advertised. Actually, the hut is just a temporary storage building that is set on housing development grounds.

STICKY BUSINESS-Craftsman S. Ayling checks a stock of walking sticks made in a small factory in Chiddingold, England. Although the canes aren't too much in vogue, the plant gets enough orders for it to stay in business.

This is a typical scene from a flying doctor's plane in a remote homestead.

Two-way radio summons medical help for many communities in the "outback."

IN AUSTRALIA, there is 1 a group of doctors that deserves the term usually reserved for nurses - "angels of mercy." These Australian physicians drop out of the sky in the specially-equipped airplanes. They provide the only medical service to isolated homesteads that dot the lonely inland areas of Australia's "outback." Most homes are linked to the outside world only by twoway radio. From eleven bases, the members of the Royal Flying Doctor service cover about two-thirds of nearly three million square miles. Dr. John Lawry, who operates out of Broken Hill, in New South Wales, covers his vast distances every week.

Dr. John Lawry examines a patient, Pauline Bulling.

Dr. Lawry is thanked again by grateful residents as he leaves for another spot.

Start The New Year Right In A Home Of Your Own

I believe the pride of ownership is instilled in all of us, in some greater than in others. The greatest tribute to that feeling is home ownership, mainly because the home is the foundation of the family, of all friendships and all happiness. Many people now own homes, but find them for some reason too large or too small for their present needs. These people we are in a position to help. Then there are those who are looking to purchase a home of their own possibly for the first time, but are not sure how to go about it properly, I can also help here. Due to my fine assortment of homes that are now on the market, I'm sure I can help you find the home of your choice, in the price range that you can afford, so what ever your needs,
